He'll Break up with You When Summer Comes

Fallulah

Evenings are getting longer, we get drunk on morning dew
I wish that I was stronger, but I still have a hole from you Hold me, not cause you love me, but because I need to stand
Quickly, don't want the memories, I wanna turn the time by hand

He'll break up with you when summer comes
When the leaves are at their green
And you know that it won't feel the same
If you take him back in your arms

He'll break up with you when summer comes
He'll say it's warmer by the sea
If you wonder how I know these things
Take a look inside of me

Sunsets from where we once said that we'd never be apart
I lie here in a new bed, holding on to what is not Kiss me, not cause you love me, but because I need to feel Numbness inside my body, and I say "It's no big deal"

He'll break up with you when summer comes
When the stars are hard to see
And you know that he won't feel the same
If you take him back in your heart

He'll break up with you when summer comes
Because he thinks that he is free
If you wonder how I know these things
Take a look inside of me

You motherfucking asshole
You made me bitter and ice cold
You motherfucking asshole
truth be told
truth be told

You motherfucking asshole
You made me bitter and ice cold
You motherfucking asshole
truth be told
truth be told

He'll break up with you when summer comes
