Through Different Eyes

Fates Warning

We're walking within a shadow Where echoes of different times resound Looking for memories to relive In yesterdays that can't be found

Through different eyes
We keep looking for what we lack
Changing minds
Take us away, and you can't go back

And staring into ageless eyes That shared secrets too dark for light We're searching for old bonds in places That lie forever out of sight

Through different eyes
We keep looking for what we lack
Changing minds
Take us away, and you can't go back

To different times
Or ageless eyes, free from sorrow
Changing hearts
Will hide the past from tomorrow

Through different eyes we try to find People and places we've left behind.
