I like the way you talk about yourself as if you're someone else

I like the way you smile when you're so proud of something you did yourself

Today your head is down your mind is somewhere else

I hate the way you talk about yourself when you're feeling down

I hate the way you talk about me to your friends

They tell me everything you may as well talk to my face

I love the way we talk to try to fill the space

I hate the way you try to hide the things we really want to say

Have I misread the way I feel about you

Have I misread the way I feel about you

Have I misread the way I feel about you

Have I misread the way I feel about you

Have I misread the way I feel about you

Have I misread the way I feel about you
