

How Old You are Never Forget Your Dream

Fear, and Loathing in Las Vegas

Sunny day, the birds sing
Beautiful but painful
Tune fondly reminds me
Of all the old days...

My own dream fell from my hands
As I have got older, why?
Guess it's how I've become not a child

Little boy questioned his mother
He asked what he can be in the future
With a sad smile, she tells him
He can be anything he wants to be
Ah, ah-ah
Ah, ah-ah!

Stuck in between social expectation
We lie and hide what's so called "Dream"
We learn how to obey other people
We change, so that we don't be outcasts
Boy said he'd become (an) astronaut
And fly out into space
Crews around the Universe
He wanted to see the stars
And also see other planets in outer space

Why don't we just keep dreaming?
Let's keep our mind with dream and faith
As long as we wish, we can make it come true
How old you are, never forget your dream
(Forget your dream)
Keep dreaming
Let's keep our mind with dream and faith
It may take long, but have trust, try your best
Don't wait for dreams to come true
Attain it by yourself

It won't matter
You make (the) difference
