

Scream Hard as You Can

Fear, and Loathing in Las Vegas

I am gonna take all pain you carry
(And) pull you out from the dark

"It's not this and it's not that..."
Mumbling the same phrases over and over
Can't make the right decision
Feels like you've been thrown somewhere on your own
Suddenly, in (the) middle of nowhere
With no others to talk or (to) rely on

Despondency
Nostalgic memories entwines you like a vine
Stabs you with thorns

You carry so much pain inside
Why do you act to be strong?
You bluff and say you are okay
Wicked smile proves you aren't
Don't you be crying
'Cause sad face does not suit you
All I want is you
Please, keep smiling!

Sunshine gradually fades away
And clouds the answer, answer
Stay strong...
Formulas and equations is no longer there
Decisions are up to you

Identity
Examine really carefully
See what's there
Look what is there
How does it reflect on to the mirror?
Do not face away from reality
Scrutinize from the whorl
Of your hair right to the tip of your toe
What do you notice inside?
Can you see? Yourself crying and your wounded heart

On and on, tragedy happens
It is one of the routines we go through
Woah-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh, oh-oh, oh-oh-oh-oh-oh!
Do get used to heart-breaking news
Because it's something that isn't necessary
Woah-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh
Oh-oh, oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh!

Drops of tears are the shape of your pain
Which cannot be expressed by words
It's the only tangible object
That let people recognize your wounds
(Recognize your wounds)
Don't be afraid to cry or weep anytime you want to

Scars will heal someday
I will be waiting for you

You will be alright and rise up again, again
Clouds that have blocked the light
Will vanish away and Sun light will shine, will shine
Have confidence in all your decisions

The more you cry, the stronger you'll be
Let the time heal all your scars