The Waiting Makes Me Curious

Fear Before The March Of Flames

Just like I came into this world all by myself, I will leave it. I stared into the serpents eyes And then for once I felt alive. Just like I came into this world all by myself, I will leave it.

And if this world wasn't built for me there is no point at all.

Hold onto your vice and I will hold onto mine.

Think it but don't say it...

Your day will come

Twenty-seven invincible years, where do you go where nowhere feels like home? And I can't sleep a wink so i'll tell you when I get there. I'll walk into the light, but the lights fading away.