I sit back down, put my feet up and watch the TV
Lost in sound, smiles and frowns, bourbon whiskey
Too much information drowning in these thoughts
I sit back down, put my feet up and watch the TV

Pull this broken arrow from my heart
Make the brass band playing in my head stop
Pull this broken arrow from my heart
It stays like this, I can't get up

She lived in a big house, in a big house
(At the end of the road)
My heart beats faster like a steam train
(All alone)

I come back down see a car moving in the distance
I see a star shooting over without resistance
Too much information, all this talk

Pull this broken arrow from my heart
Make the brass band playing in my head stop
Pull this broken arrow from my heart
It stays like this, I can't get up

She lived in a big house, in a big house
(At the end of the road)
My heart beats faster like a steam train
(All alone)
All alone (All alone)
All alone

The years are slipping by
"Groundhog days" and "nine to five"
The dreams we had, we never chased
Like books we read but have no end
I guess this is the story of my life

Pull this broken arrow from my heart
Make the brass band playing in my head stop
Pull this broken arrow from my heart
It stays like this, I can't get up

She lived in a big house, in a big house
(At the end of the road)
My heart beats faster like a steam train
(All alone)

She lived in a big house, in a big house
(At the end of the road)
Tribulation, frustration
All alone

All alone (All alone)
All alone
