Are we paying the price for a holy war
(Criminal)
Standing up for our rights, for a better cause
We built defences from the ground
(Criminal)
New intervention comes around

We're looking for something, a glimmer of hope
So many reasons, too many ways in which to go

As the light begins to fade
Who will be the one you look for
As we slowly fall from grace
And living seems impossible?

Are we paying the price for a minority?
(Criminal)
Sick of taking advice from the enemy
They line is us up and shoot us down
(Criminal)
Like empty bottles, matchstick men

We're looking for something, a glimmer of hope
So many reasons, too many ways in which to go

As the light begins to fade
Who will be the one you look for
As we slowly fall from grace
And living seems impossible?

The world is half asleep
The world is half asleep
We can sit back in our homes, leave the monsters free to roam
The world is half asleep
The world is half a...

We're looking for something, a glimmer of hope
So many reasons, too many ways in which to go

As the light begins to fade
Who will be the one you look for
As we slowly fall from grace?
It's impossible
When the light begins to fade
And nothing else seems logical
