Lost & Found

Feint

Oh, every time I tried so hard to break these walls
I'd always be afraid to lose myself and fall
And when I took this path I
Never ever thought it'd steer me wrong, no
Beauty doesn't last forever
The memories I'll always treasure

Didn't know when I found myself I could do anything
And you stand there thinkin' bout what you'd be without me
Boy, you can try but I'll only ever be true to my heart
I've always been who I really am from the start

I lost you, then found me
Baby I don't need your sympathy, your sympathy
I lost you, then found me
So who's the one that wins the game?

(So who's the one that wins the game?)

I lost you, then found me
Baby I don't need your sympathy, your sympathy
I lost you, then found me
So who's the one that wins the game?

(So who's the one that wins the game?)

I lost you, then found me
Baby I don't need your sympathy, your sympathy
I lost you, then found me
So who's the one that wins the game?
