Fenne Lily

I was in the business of letting go
Then you came around and put me out of the job
And my misery at the same time

Now you live here and so do I
Not together, though
You're asking me all the time to reconsider
I don't think I can
Though I've been trying
I've been trying

Now seven years away from that concrete pond
Filling up my throat
It taught me less of the world than who is in it
And yeah I never knew you
And that's changing
But I'm changing, too
At the same time

When you met me I was all in black
Now I have that sugar light I never wanna go back
But you know me better than a carpet knows the floor
Guess I won't be coming home to you anymore

Soon brand new
Superglued
Good as new Superglued
Soon brand new
Superglued
Good as new
