

...

FEVER 333

"333! 333! 333!..."

"We're here live in the middle of what seems to a very raucous yet somehow focused gathering. Hundreds, if not thousands, of people have gathered here today to boisterously demand change. People of all ages, different colors, beliefs, and genders. One of the most eclectic gatherings I have ever witnessed. And they seem to be here in the name of progress for all people. I'm here with one of the participants now. Sir, what is it that you're here for? What do you want the world to know after today?"

"What do I want them to know?

I want them to know there's a motherfucking fever coming!"