

Called You Twice

FIDLAR

We fought at a rock show I walked out you didn't follow then I knew we were through
If I'm being honest my friends hated your ironic attitude, same for me it wasn't cute
Guess I've been assuming that real life was like a movie but you didn't even give us a chance
When all the good things happened you were absent and distracted not supportive
You acted mean and kinda bored

I fall to a piece
I can tell the heart breaks in degrees
Smiling as I look back wondering why you took so long to see

I never meant to call you
But then I went and called you twice
I never meant to know you
But now I know the things you like and don't like
And baby when I saw you
I saw that we would crash and burn
I went to every school but
I never really learned

Love notes on the table I was broken and disabled by the pain by the pain
Like it was a mantra kept repeating all the drama we created it was our baby
Found myself concealing tiny secrets with no meaning cause it gave a strange sensation of control
Said you would protect me but I'm stronger now you've left me after all after all

I fall to a piece
I can tell the heart breaks in degrees
Smiling as I look back knowing that you took nothing from me

I never meant to call you
But then I went and called you twice
I never meant to know you
But now I know the things you like and don't like
And baby when I saw you
I saw that we would crash and burn
I went every school but
I never really learned

I'll just turn around and let it out
Face in hands and cry it out
I'm gonna turn around and let it out
Face in hands and cry it out
I'm gonna turn around and let it out
Face in hands and

I never meant to call you
But then I went and called you twice
I never meant to know you
But now I know the things you like and don't like
And baby when I saw you
I saw that we would crash and burn
I went every school but

I never really learned
