

Hold the Flank

Figurines

Hold the flank, inhale the smell of what you won
You blow your trumpet through the fields glorified at once

And then she said my overrated tongue
Was pulled down inside like when the day begun

Silence will know you too well to live together
Unlike the dreamers they might just bond forever
Never wait on someone
Just move on, you move on
Never wait on someone
Just move on, you move on

In tournaments to turn away from the winning song
It's all the same like in the dream where you belong
And then she said my overrated tongue
Was pulled down inside like when the day begun

Silence will know you too well to live together
Unlike the dreamers they might just bond forever
Never wait on someone
Just move on, you move on
Never wait on someone
Just move on, you move on

Hold the flank, inhale the smell of what you won
You're not the same, remember what you've really done
And then she said my overrated tongue
Was pulled down inside like when the day begun

Silence will know you too well to live together
Unlike the dreamers they might just bond forever
