

Release Me on the Floor

Figurines

I'm alive again and I'll begin to know you
Feeling dirty, no remorse, no, I'll show you
You guide the ones you care for
Claim the parts that you swore

Watch the showers turn to snow beyond the craters
Slowly fancied by the power of your favours
All your foreign boundaries
Slips away through countries

Have you seen the cold wind blow
In a temper that you like
Have you lost it all day long
To the silence of the tide
You wonder where it all began, I wonder where you are
Blind me by my own disguise, release me on the floor
For one day more

Moving faster on your toes, the evening fades out
You stayed inside forever and you never came out
First of all I owe you
For what I never told you

Have you seen the cold wind blow
In a temper that you like
Have you lost it all day long
To the silence of the tide
You wonder where it all began, I wonder where you are
Blind me by my own disguise, release me on the floor
For one day more

Have you seen the cold wind blow
In a temper that you like
Have you lost it all day long
To the silence of the tide
You wonder where it all began, I wonder where you are
Blind me by my own disguise, release me on the floor
