Got my back up against the wall
Got my back up against the wall
Got my back up against the wall

I got this feeling that you want the big lie
I got the feeling that your life has no might
A long while must pass to see what they've done
A lie a day will bring the dim with their guns

You make me feel like I just want to go die
You make me feel like I just want to go die
You make me sick with all your sweet little lies
You make me feel like I just want to go die

Got my back up against the wall
Got my back up against the wall

How long will thieves steer the thoughts in your head
How long will you let them take from the dead
A bridge too far a mountain of heat
I crave the truth it must be seen its relief

You make me feel like I just want to go die
You make me feel like I just want to go die
You make me sick with all your sweet little lies
You make me feel like I just want to go die

Got my back up against the wall
Got my back up against the wall
Got my back up against the wall

You make me feel like I just want to go die
You make me feel like I just want to go die
You make me sick with all your sweet little lies
You make me feel like I just want to go die

Got my back up against the wall
