

Woods

Fireworks

Your sister started pulling her hair out
But when she pulled up next to me
I pretended the sun was in my eyes
Instead of pretending she wasn't looking

It's a quick though I gave her, sort of no way
I'm thinking about you every day

When I was young, doubt chewed me up
And I was swallowed by, by a world that I don't feel a part of
By the world that I don't feel a part of anymore

That old man stood in front of your body
Attend the look would have call your den
I watched your parents buying him a check
And their lips but knowing they kissed your forehead

And we kept you exactly the same
I'm still thinking about you every day

When I was young, doubt chewed me up
And I was swallowed by, by a world that I don't feel a part of
By the world that I don't feel a part of anymore

Smashed that girl's pumpkins on her driveway
When I read the note she left on your grave
It's been fifteen years
You're the reason I'm not crushing anybody
I really think you were that somebody

When I was young, doubt chewed me up
And I was swallowed by, by a world that I don't feel a part of
When I was young, doubt chewed me up
And I was swallowed by, by a world that I don't feel a part of
By the world that I don't feel a part of anymore