Scattering Crows (Still Time)

Fish

Still as a breath held as a sigh, still as a heart that denies the final truth,
The breaking news,
on the edge of a moment where we hope and we pray that there's still time, There's always time, time to look back, time to regret, time to remember just how we met,
Time slips slowly by as I stare at forever,
And I wonder if we still have time?
Still after all is said and done, still you're the only one to touch my soul
To fill my world, your magic still lingers as it did once upon a time,
Would you give me time, could you change your mind?
Let me get on my knees,
I'm begging you please all I want for you to do is forgive me,
give me one more chance, let me prove to you that I can still be true, let me show you that the love we have isn't over,
that we still have time,
Let me run to you through an open field and you'll see me comin g,
I'll be scattering crows.
Everything keeps changing; nothing ever stays the same,
Let me run to you through an open field,
You'll see me coming,
I'll be scattering crows

Tištěno z pisnicky-akordy.cz

Sponzor: www.srovnavac.cz - vyberte si pojištění online!