

Between the Pavement and the Stars

Five Iron Frenzy

..."Are we losing you now, November-one-two?"

Said the radio, hoping to break through

"We can get you out, if you'll just keep on"

And the plot keeps thickening, so please be strong

And all this time, you've never given up and you're never giving out

All this time, you can never go back, but you've never had more doubt

Between the pavement and the stars

Beneath the the weight of years of scars

Signal's breaking up, at the edge of night

Have you lost the will to be in this fight

Just keep digging in, don't give up on us yet

Are we coming in clear, on the radio set

And all this time, when there's hardly any day, and hardly ever night

All this time, where you're halfway in shadows, and halfway in light

Between the pavement and the stars

Beneath the the weight of years of scars

Burns the same soul

Paint the sky blue

Hallelujah

You're still you

And Love is patient, it barely crawls

And Love has only conquered all

Between the pavement and the stars

Beneath the the weight of years of scars

Burns the same soul

Paint the sky blue

Hallelujah

You're still you

Burns the same soul

Paint the sky blue

Hallelujah

You're still you