

Damage Is Done

Fivefold

I see you
It's not enough for the fake smile you gave
When you took advantage of your gain
You're weak, small and helpless
Between a rock and a silence
So deafening

Call you out you say I'm a liar
Weak man caught up in the fire
Burning on the lips
Of the souls that you dismissed
Your damage is done

I cannot believe
That you can even sleep
Using your pedestal
On those who look up to you
And loose lips they sink ships
Captain of your bullshit
Talk allot about your righteousness
But we know how you hold
Your ego so close to your chest
What was said in your darkness
Will haunt you the rest of your life

Call you out you say I'm a liar
Weak man caught up in the fire
Burning on the lips
Of the souls that you dismissed
Your damage is done

Cry us a river
No one's buying
Your silver tongue
No hiding or denying
Stand up and face the truth
You are through
And your damage is done

Sink off to your own prison
Nobody's missing you
Or defending you
Would you maybe
Do things different this time
You'd apologize
If you only had a spine

Dig your own grave
Your tower is burnt down
Listen to your victims voice now
With tears in their eyes
And fists to the sky
You won't be remembered
Ever again

Call you out you say I'm a liar
Weak man caught up in the fire

Burning on the lips
Of the souls that you dismissed
Your damage is done

Cry us a river
No one's buying
Your silver tongue
No hiding or denying
Stand up and face the truth
You are through
And your damage is done