

Till Death

Fivefold

Looking back upon the path and I
I can't believe my eyes
The boy that I was
And the man that I've become
Breaking through some memory
I still recall the scene
From across the room
Like something right out of a dream

And now I sit here trying to find the Words to show you my love
But they don't come
They just stay locked up in my head
So I will vow until the day
This body fades away
To hold you high and
I'll sing

When the winter comes
I'll scream your name
Don't be afraid of what's beneath
When the reaper comes
I'll hold you tight and I'll scream
"Don't you take her away from me,
Don't you take her away"

I lived my life a vagabond
The path that I was on Better to leave than leaving
Broken in the end
But like a moth into the flame
Your fire burned away
All the fear that I
Held deep inside my heart

And though I lack in every way
You still decide to stay
Dare to look inside
And see me for who I am
So I will vow until the day
This body fades away
To hold you high and
I'll sing

When the winter comes
I'll scream your name
Don't be afraid of what's beneath
When the reaper comes
I'll hold you tight and I'll scream
"Don't you take her away from me,

And I'll see the face of my desire
Don't let it burn away
A small spark that grew into a fire

When the winter comes
"Don't you take her away from me,

And I'll see the face that I desire
