FLEMMING

Running up the stairs and my feet are bare tonight, tonight
Running in the dark and my face feels warm tonight
I can't believe I let you go again
I can't believe I let you go, my friend

And I know the world is changing and so are you, so are you
And I know my heart is aching, can you feel it too?

'Cause it feels like home
It feels like home
'Cause you feel like home to me
Like home to me

Running in the yard looking at the stars tonight, tonight
Lying on the ground feeling lost and found tonight
I can't believe I let you go again
I can't believe I let you go, my friend

And I know the world is changing and so are you, so are you
And I know my heart is aching, can you feel it too?

'Cause it feels like home
It feels like home
'Cause you feel like home to me
Like home to me
'Cause it feels like home
It feels like home
'Cause you feel like home to me

All the memories are changing
Memories are fading
And I'm starting to blame you
The memories are changing
Memories are fading
And I'm starting to blame you
All the memories are changing
Memories are fading
And I'm starting to blame you
All the memories are changing
Memories are fading
And I'm starting to hate you

'Cause it feels like home
It feels like home
'Cause you feel like home to me
Because it feels like home
It feels like home
'Cause you feel like home to me

Oh, no, no
Feels like home to me
'Cause it feels like home
Like home
Like home to me
Like home to me
Like home to me
Like home to me
