

About You

Fletcher

Drinking my coffee just ruined my day
Picturing us at that corner cafe
Ya, ya, ya ya, ya, ya
Grabbing my keys, they feel heavy to me
'Cause you gave me back, the one you don't need
Ya, ya, ya ya, ya, ya

I'm not tired
I'm not lonely
So why does my mind go back to when you used to hold me?
Time, yeah, it's been enough time
To get you out of my mind

But now I'm thinking
I'll never stop thinking about you
And I'm just wondering
When I'll stop wondering about you
You got your hands on me
You got your hands on me
A thousand miles away
But you still got your hands on me
And I'm thinking
I'll never stop thinking about you

Going to places, meeting new faces
But your memory still isn't fading
Ya, ya, ya ya, ya, ya
Maybe I still got some shit left to say
Maybe your ghost is stuck in my brain
Ya, ya, ya ya, ya, ya

I'm not tired
I'm not lonely
So why does my mind go back to when you used to hold me?
Time, yeah, it's been enough time
To get you out of my mind

But now I'm thinking
I'll never stop thinking about you
And I'm just wondering
When I'll stop wondering about you
You got your hands on me
You got your hands on me
A thousand miles away
But you still got your hands on me
And I'm thinking
I'll never stop thinking about you
Thinking about you, no, no

And I'm thinking, just thinking about you
And I'm wondering, just wondering about you
You got your hands on me
You got your hands on me
A thousand miles away
But you still got your hands on me
And I'm thinking
I'll never stop thinking about you
