

Right?

flipturn

So you say you feel young, you say you feel able
You got air in your lungs, light in your eyes
But the tip of your tongue is so fucking unstable
Yeah you second guess everything the second you're capable
Like you could be right
Or you could be grateful

But all you're asking for is just a little more time
To prove some existence
In some existential war, through all the blood and gore
'Cause people admire persistence

And it's a hell of fight
And I know you'd kill 'em on sight
If someone took meaning from the love of your life
Loosened your grip on what you hold tight
Like you could be faithful, you could be right

When all you're asking for is just a little more time
To prove some existence
In some existential war, through all the blood and gore
'Cause people admire persistence

And all you're asking for is just a little more time
To prove some existence
In some existential war, through all the blood and gore
'Cause people admire persistence

Right?... Right?... Right?... Right?... Right?

Right?
You must persist
Under the pressure to be some somebody's narcissist

Right?
You must admit
Under the consequences you start to indulge in it

Right?
You feel adored
You give everyone everything that they've been asking for

That's all that you're asking for

Right?