

Something You Needed

flipturn

Annika Rae, there was warmth in the rain
Oh, and honey, there was love
In the hymns that you sang
When you asked for protection, did you get the breeze?
And did the imperfection make it hard to believe
In Jesus Christ? When you were kind of hoping you might, you might

Oh, was it something you needed?
Is that what you thought, that life owed you love?
Well, God bless your heart, it never does

And when you cried for affection, did the dopamine tease?
And did you realize the rain could never be the sea?
Well, Jesus Christ, you may not survive
You may never, you may never know

Was it something you needed?
Is that what you thought, that life owed you love?
God bless your heart

You were gone and you had to see
Well maybe your love, maybe it was, maybe it's not enough to be

Was it something you needed?
Is that what you thought, that life owed you love?
Well, God bless your heart