

Signed the will in your name
And I swallowed the pill that you gave to me
I'd been practicing stitching your memory
Into something I could live without
I thought you'd figure it out
There's a lot of things I figured you'd know by now
But I guess everybody just sold you out
Into something they could quiet down

You see it too
All the catacombs running through you
Something you don't say out loud
If it's in me now
I don't know if I'll make it home
But I'll try to find a way somehow
If you still miss me don't you

You said you wanted to die
Said you got a broken heart and a broken mind
And no one's there to calm you down when you get too high
So you do it all over again
Saw it written in stone
All the secrets only you and your sister know
I don't sleep 'cause I'm unsure if you're all alone
Or there's someone there to talk you down

You see it too
All the catacombs running through me
Something I don't say out loud
If it's in you now
Just tell me if you're leaving
And I'll try to find a way somehow
To make history of you
