

Take Back Everything

For All Those Sleeping

Your silence says so much more to me than words could ever speak but I'm still trying to reach you somewhere I know your there just trying to breath again under this surface we can't break through

Take back, Take back everything, forget our memories cause I want to be nothing to you...
maybe on another day I'll feel a different way but I want to be nothing to you

No way we'll get out of this alive unless your willing to leave behind a part of us to die
How can we move on when we're living in the past?
How can we move on when we're living in the past?

You've been gone for far to long it seems to get back to me but I'm still trying to find you
Somewhere I know your there just try to find your way back home again but in this darkness I can't see you

Take back, Take back everything,
forget our memories cause I want to be nothing to you...
maybe on another day I'll feel a different way but I want to be nothing to you

Why did you have to leave?

I can't escape this prison that we made?
There's something I can't do until I'm nothing to you

Take back, Take back everything,
forget our memories cause I want to be nothing to you...
maybe on another day I'll feel a different way but I want to be nothing to you

NOTHING TO YOU!