

It's Finally Over

Four Letter Lie

It's been going on for years and you can't say no.
The hardest part is a sign of your last words.
Did it save your life? Would you do it again?
Did it save your life? Would you do it again?
My mind is wasted, but she brought me to my knees.
No way he's your fucking "friend,"
can't be mad to believe the fact I need to get away.
Everyone wants to be someone else.
It's hard to love when you can't love yourself.

I wake up to the sound of the outside world with disbelief settling in.
I'll still be living when you're gone.
Oh god, now I finally understand why everything happens for a reason.

Time to shake off last night, I knew I'd regret it by morning.
Stop me if I said too much,
got a smile on my face and no one cares where you are.
Everyone wants to be someone else.
It's hard to love when you can't love yourself.

I wake up to the sound of the outside world with disbelief settling in.
I'll still be living when you're gone.
Oh god, now I finally understand why everything happens for a reason.

This must be a dream, voices all around me.
White walls. White walls.
It's finally over. It's finally over.
Now I finally understand why everything happens for a reason.
It's finally over.