Out There

Fox Stevenson

I'm gonna go, gotta find my place and
Rip it out, from the time I don't care
Yeah take it back, she looks up and she says
Try not to lose yourself out there

I'm tired of this stupid town
I'm tired of the way it's always looking down
There really ain't no reason I should stick around
She says just leave it

I'm going alone, I'll find myself on my own
I'm gonna do what I can while I'm still breathing

I'm gonna go, gotta find my place and
Rip it out, from the time I don't care
Yeah take it back, she looks up and she says
Try not to lose yourself out there

We all know there are things we've missed
We all know there are plenty better things than this
There's a question mark above my head that I would like to let go
Instead of living my life in fear, I'm gonna get out of here
If it's a fall from grace well at least we know

I'm gonna go, gotta find my place and
Rip it out, from the time I don't care
Yeah take it back, she looks up and she says
Try not to lose yourself out there

Yourself out there
Yourself out there
Yourself out there
Yourself out there
There's only one thing for which I hadn't planned
I'm steppin' out the door as she grabs my hand
Through teary eyes she says please don't do this
I'm going alone, left by myself on my own
I'm gonna do what I can, while I'm still breathing

I'm gonna go, gotta find my place and
Rip it out, from the time I don't care
Yeah take it back, she looks up and she says
Try not to lose yourself out there
