

Too Much Colour

Foxes

Where did the night go?
Did it open up and swallow me whole?
I want you to stay
But it always let's me go
I'm singing out loud
I should know
I should know better

And now I feel it raging
Raging through my soul
And now I feel alive
But I know, oh I know
That I won't be alive for long

There's a night and it opens to a door
Would you walk in
Would you walk?
And I was searching
Through an ocean
Time bends till it opens

I take too much colour in
Too much, too much colour in
I take too much colour in
Too much, too much colour in
I take too much colour in
Too much, too much colour in
I take too much colour in
Too much, too much colour in

(I take too much colour in
Too much too much colour in)