

Forward

Fractures

Wait until you find that pot of gold, till everything starts
Wait until the perfect point till what you want is gone
You could never see what's further on, unless it shone brighter
You would never leave unless the path ahead was all laid out for you

You're waiting for imaginary people, imaginary circumstance and so
You're fate unfolds, more unanswered questions
Other problems you won't solve

Wasting your time looking for a free ride
Think everything's fine but you can't see further forward
Draw another line so you can hide behind it
Never even thought twice about the things you even wanted

Hold on for another coattail you can ride upon
But it'll be different this time
You tell me, that you will try harder, and that everything follows
Maybe I'd believe you if I didn't know what came before it all

Wasting your time looking for a free ride
Think everything's fine but you can't see further forward
Draw another line so you can hide behind it
Never even thought twice about the things you even wanted

It didn't matter what you wanted
It never mattered what went wrong, you kept faking
You wouldn't let it break your promise
You just pretend instead, I watch as you waste it

Wasting your time looking for a free ride
Think everything's fine but you can't see further forward
Draw another line so you can hide behind it
Never even thought twice about the things you even wanted

Wasting your time looking for a free ride
Think everything's fine but you can't see further forward
Draw another line so you can hide behind it
Never even thought twice about the things you even wanted