Maybe Later On

Fractures

What did I say this time
I think that you find my mistakes (again)
A white flag, I'm keeping the peace here

I mean no harm, did I do wrong, tell me truly
I feel the cold when there was warmth, take over me

Just for the record I feel so unsettled by this, it's strange
And then it feels okay, you change your mind on me, stop this game

What has changed for us
Figured when we started we would never stop
You don't take (you don't ever take) my side
I see only distance I just don't see why

We're treading water, can't find the cause
(Tell me something new)
I'm so unsure of what my part was
I wish you would tell the truth

Tear me apart if that's what you want
(I won't stop you)
You're free to go, I hope you don't
Just tell me

What has changed for us
Figured when we started we would never stop
You don't take (you don't ever take) my side
I see only distance I just don't see why

Sentiment is keeping us close
But I see it eroding away
I don't want to leave
But everything else seems to be heading that way

Hard not to notice, how things were not the same
There's a discordance, hard to escape these days

What has changed for us
Figured when we started we would never stop
You don't take (you don't ever take) my side
I see only distance I just don't see why

Sentiment is keeping us close
But I see it eroding away
I don't want to leave
But everything else seems to be heading that way
