

Isn't it strange
That we're falling apart
From the day that we started
Isn't it hard
Knowing these things are unspoken
We're born to be broken
And isn't it strange
That we're living our lives
On the borrowing time
And isn't it hard
Getting through this

You know it's not easy
Getting through this
Through this
All these things we know
We can't control

You know it's not easy
Getting through this
Through this
All these things we know
We can't control

Once when anything we know
Turned into dust
When it was suddenly falling down
They're falling down
And things will come and things will go
The time is spent as if not known they're falling down
They're falling down
And did we ever get to see
The place that we were told we'd be when it's all done
When we are over
Day will come and it will cease
Laugh and strength, the will to breathe we've given up
We've given up

You know it's not easy
Getting through this
Through this
All these things we know
We can't control

You know it's not easy
Getting through this
Through this
All these things we know
We can't control