

Reactor

Fractures

You could say these mistakes stem from something greater
I replace but now I falter
Now we felt like common sense it seems somehow I've drifted
But you would stay, and I would break you
Did you suspect, how did you not see?
My eyes were hiding marks along my back
And I promise you
Should I fall or stand to circumstance, present itself for you
And I won't pretend, I cannot bend the truth

Caught in the traction
Caught in the physical
Caught like a crazy fool

And I didn't realize my fault
Couldn't resist it
Couldn't resist the touch
Those fingers 'round my throat
Maybe I wished it, maybe I willed it up
And I'm feeling so exposed
The touch of her lips and tempering kiss and when
The heat melts off my clothes
Blow out emission, already distant now

Breaking the compound, I was led so blindly
My fault, to wonder, I found how, 'til suddenly
The damage straight, the self-restraint
The least I answer for
Your common sense, you once possessed
Was gone

And I didn't realize my fault
Couldn't resist it
Couldn't resist the touch
Those fingers 'round my throat
Maybe I wished it, maybe I willed it up
And I'm feeling so exposed
The touch of her lips and tempering kiss and when
The heat melts off my clothes
Blow out emission, already distant now

I was missing, I was somewhere inside myself
I was reeled in, I was partial to my fate
I was missing, I was found out with someone else
I was distant, who knew it could

And I didn't realize my fault
Couldn't resist it
Couldn't resist the touch
Those fingers 'round my throat
Maybe I wished it, maybe I willed it up
And I'm feeling so exposed
The touch of her lips and tempering kiss and when
The heat melts off my clothes
Blow out emission, already distant now