

Counterfeit

Framing Hanley

I take the backroads on my way home
I kill the radio and ride in silence
I really don't know what I'm doin' with my life
I call my best friend, she says I'm over this
It's 4 AM and you should not be drivin'
I've really gotta go, look what's becomin' of your life

Soon, you'll wake up sorry
Cursin' at the morning, no
Don't call me back
Let's leave it at that
I said, one time is too many, girl
I fucked up plenty, but
I need you back
I need you bad

She said I can't hold on
To somethin' that isn't there for me to hold onto
It's all my fault
For thinkin' I could be the one who changes you
And after all the things we've been through
I keep runnin' back to rescue
The one I lost
I can't hold on

I'm a counterfeit, I'm not okay with it
Puttin' on a show and losin' touch
Back to the basics, I've gotta figure out my life
I push and pulled until the root was exposed
Remindin' me of who I was long ago
How will I ever make this right?

So if, I say I'm sorry
Can you ignore the warnings?
Will you, take me back?
I need you back

She said I can't hold on
To somethin' that isn't there for me to hold onto
It's all my fault
For thinkin' I could be the one who changes you
And after all the things we've been through
I keep runnin' back to rescue
The one I lost

I fought so hard to keep you near
Then I finally realized
You reopen the scars then disappear
Leavin' me empty inside

So you can say you're sorry
Tell me not to worry, but
We can't get it back
The love that we had

I can't hold on
To somethin' that isn't there for me to hold onto

It's all my fault
For thinkin' I could be the one who changes you
After everything we've been through
I keep runnin' back to rescue
The one I lost
I can't hold on
