

Basement Eyes

Frank Iero

I've been here before, so proud yet insecure
And it's sad to realize that we used to get high
But now we just get down

What washed up on the shore was unrecognizable
To the crowds gathered round to try and expose what they found
But they never understood

If you want to believe in something
It's that nothing lasts forever
If you wanted to fight for something
Start a war against time passing by
And the pale in your eyes
That still can't hold a gaze

We weathered every storm but we're shattered at the core
And it breaks my heart to doubt who you are
But I'll try and keep the faith

If you want to believe in something
It's that nothing lasts forever
If you wanted to fight for something
Start a war against time passing by
And the pale in your eyes
That still cant hold my gaze

If you want to believe in something
It's that nothing lasts forever
If you want to believe in something
It's that nothing lasts forever
It's that nothing lasts forever
If you wanted to fight for something
Start with us
Because it kills me to know that we used to feel low
But now you just lay down and it's time that we all stood up

If you want to believe in something
It's that nothing lasts forever
If you wanted to fight for something
Start with us
I just want to believe in something
I just want to believe in something
