

I'll Let You Down

Frank Iero

No one here has much to say, we weren't listening anyway.
But I got a feeling things are about to get much worse, before they get worse.
I'm not too good at feeling good, at least not the way I thought
I would.
And this ugly winter's been creeping into my fall, and I hit a wall where...

Nothing seems to matter and no one seems to bother anymore.

And I've been down this road once before,
I've stared down the barrel of my heart.
It broke completely when I, I shifted the blame,
But I guess fools we don't change.
Don't listen to me, cause I'll let you down.

Maybe a better man would bet on this losing hand,
But I'd rather fold and walk away
On my own legs while they can carry me.

Nothing seems to matter and no one seems to bother anymore.

I've been down this road once before,
I've stared down the barrel of my heart.
You smiled so sweetly when they, they took you away,
But I guess victims we don't change.
But don't take it from me, cause I'll let you down.

Is there something you wanna tell me?
Please don't hold back now.
I've been waiting so long for you to meet me.
Please don't turn back now.

I think about it all the time,
I couldn't miss you anymore than I do...

I've been down this road once before,
I've stared down the barrel of my heart.
You smiled so sweetly when you, you twisted your blade,
But I guess victims we don't change.
But don't take it from me, cause I'll let you down.
I'll let you down again, over again.
Yeah I'll let you down.