

Footprints

Frank Walker

I'm talking through these long doors
Always two sides to every broken word
That you're screaming now you're leaving
Don't believe it anymore

I'm trying to learn your language
To work out what you need
Cause I can see its different
To what you say to me
You tell me what you want
Baby that's not what you need
Or I just don't get it

If you want to be alone
Than why you leaving these footprints
It seems like every time you go
You turn around to check I'm looking
If you want to be alone
Then why you leaving these footprints
It seems like every time you go
Then why you leaving these footprints

I'm trying to learn your language
To work out what you need
Cause I can see its different
To what you say to me
You tell me what you want
Baby that's not what you need
Or I just don't get it

Oh, if you want to be alone...

I'm talking through these long doors
Always two sides to every broken word
That you're screaming now you're leaving
Don't believe it anymore

I'm trying to learn your language
To work out what you need
Cause I can see its different
To what you say to me
You tell me what you want
Baby that's not what you need
Or I just don't get it

If you want to be alone
Than why you leaving these footprints
It seems like every time you go
You turn around to check I'm looking
If you want to be alone
Then why you leaving these footprints
It seems like every time you go
Then why you leaving these footprints

I'm trying to learn your language
To work out what you need
Cause I can see its different

To what you say to me
You tell me what you want
Baby that's not what you need
Or I just don't get it

Oh, if you want to be alone...