

Did Love

Frankmusik

"Hell, you don't know where I'm at. You couldn't possibly know where I'm at. It's too damned awesome."

Here I am once again took a chance but it ended
Now I long for your kiss
Stop the presets
Nothing new when I choose to be blue 'cause it's easy
When it's you that I miss
The hardest part is

My bed's so empty it could be it's own Republic
But you already took my flat

Did love just stop us from loving at all? At all?
Did love just stop us from loving at all?
Holding our breath when we know we have reached the end

I can't forget or regret or contend with the hindsight
When you made up your mind
It ain't different
When you reach out to me I can see it's intended
To preserve your own life
And I'm expended

And letting go I'm only losing understanding
There was no net to break my fall

Did love just stop us from loving at all? At all?
Did love just stop us from loving at all?
Holding our breath when we know we have reached the end

Did love just stop us from loving at all?

How can I believe in anything you say?
When you walked, when you walked, when you walked, walked, walked away

I watched you walk away
The very first second that you had the chance
Just write me a letter
Let me know if the grass is greener
Maybe I'll see you there one day

Holding our breath when we know we have reached the end

Did love just stop us from loving at all?
Holding our breath when we know we have reached the end

Did love just stop us from loving at all?
Holding our breath when we know we have reached the end
