

Coldest Bed

Freddie Hart

This is a coldest bed in the world

Last night still half asleep I reached over
And I put my arms around the girl I love
Lord knows I never thought it snowed in summer
This is a coldest bed in the world

She caught me in the eye and I'm guilty
For sin too bad to expect forgiveness of Wish I had another blanket I could lay on me
This is a coldest bed in the world

Only time can heal the hurt I caused her
And erase the memories of that other girl
Lying next to her wanting her but not having her
This is a coldest bed in the world
This is a coldest bed in the world