You Could Not Decide

French Kicks

If you felt alone
And if the weight wears thin
And we still know enough
To let this thing begin again

After all this time
After all we thought we knew
We weren't even trying now

I was saying something about
How it seems we've taken far too long
To end up separately again

After all this time
After all we thought we knew
We weren't even trying now

Looks like the wait is over
And if the weight we're under
Feels like someone else's problem
That's a sign

You could not decide on anything at all

And we go out alone
And we wake up with them
Well, sometimes it's enough
To make this thing begin again

After all this time
After all we thought we knew
We weren't even trying now

Looks like the wait is over
And if the weight we're under
Feels like someone else's problem
That's a sign

You could not decide on anything at all
I was staying out
You were staying where you were
And you could not decide on anything at all

Not any worse than you were before
