

Broken Heart

From Dawn To Fall

I've had enough of all these stupid games
And I can't stand
The thought no more
[The thought no more]
My heart hurts and my lungs are giving out
Reaching for a hand
But nobody's there to catch my fall

Now I'm standing
On the rooftops of this city
[Rooftops of this city]
And every heartbeat hurts like
It won't continue beating
And I'm asking you to

Take this broken heart
And fix it
Make it beat again
So that I can sing this song
Out in the heavy rain
Take this broken heart
And fix it
Make it beat again
Again

I can't remember anyone who really
Understands what I'm trying to say
[What I'm trying to say]
I'm falling down in silence,
Out of my real-world fantasy
Running to a place called heaven,
Longing for the sea

Now I'm standing
On the rooftops of this city
And every breath I take hurts
I'm giving up I'm bleeding
And I'm asking you to

Take this broken heart
And fix it
Make it beat again
So that I can sing this song
Out in the heavy rain
Take this broken heart
And fix it
Make it beat again
Make it beat again
Woah...
Take this broken heart
Woah... yeah...

I'm sitting here alone
Thinking about the things I've done
Wondering what could be better
And what I've done wrong

Now I'm standing
On the rooftops of this city
And every heartbeat hurts like
It won't continue beating
And I'm asking you to

Take this broken heart
And fix it
Make it beat again
So that I can sing this song
Out in the heavy rain
Take this broken heart
And fix it
Make it beat again
Make it beat again

Take this broken heart
Take this broken heart
Take this broken heart
My broken heart