

I was out and I'm alone
But I can be your dog
Without my home
And I'm a slave to have your name
It's all I ever wanted
Without your soul

And I never held you back
It won't come back

And I belong to every gaze
The longing of your eye
Is wandering
And there's a silence in the lake
It's lower than it was yesterday

I never took so much
It's not that much

And I want to stay
It is clean enough to start that way
The lie, everyday
Is it me or is the window pane the sky
Floating out
I can see you're not the one that's holding it down

I want to levitate
Eyes wide open
Evaporate
Drawing in the lake

I want to levitate
Holy water
Surrounding me
And I can breathe

I want to feel the break
Turning over
Another day
And I'm awake

I was out and I'm alone
But I can be your dog
Without my home
And I'm a slave to have your name
It's all I ever wanted
Without your soul

And I never held you back
It won't come back
And I never took so much
It's not that much
