

Wanderer

From Indian Lakes

I haven't gathered much
I have it left for you.
And what I have is torn.
But what I have is yours.

And I have no sense at all.
It took a while to find you.
But I was such a fool then.
I'll never leave your side again.

When this cold heart beats again, only against yours.
Waiting for whispers, I love you.
And you don't have to be alone.

I have no breath at all,
I can barely speak for words.
You've heard them all before
And you deserve much more.

When this cold heart beats again, only against yours.
Waiting for whispers, I love you.
And you don't have to be alone.

All of this time, I've been wandering
Just to be with you, oh, to be with you.
I wander on

And all of this time, I've been wandering
Just to be with you, oh, to be with you.
I wander on

And how many times will I try to find peace,
When I know it's wherever you are?

And you don't have to be alone
You don't have to be alone.