

Walk You Home

Front Porch Step

You look like your mama Oh how I love your mama
You look like I wasted most of my life, hittin' on girls that w eren't my future wife
But I was impatient I'm so glad I failed each on I'd find I gave them affection but I just don't reckon they liked that t hey all got it at the same time

Something had changed when the Lord Jesus came and he breathed
all his life in my bones
No need to chase women to try and quench thirst. I can drink fr om the fountain alone

You joke like your Dad Oh how I love your daddy so I know he was worried when I came around 'cause I've never carr ied the best name in town
But he was so patient I'm so glad he talked with me that night I said "there's no reason for you to believe, but I'm not the s ame man that I've been most my life"

Something had changed when the Lord Jesus came and he breathed
all his life in my bones
No need to chase women to try and quench thirst. I can drink fr om the fountain alone
But I crashed into you on the way to his house while we both wa lked the long narrow road I said "darling I know that I can't save your soul. You mind if I just walk you home?"

I know you love me, and darling you know I love you too
But I only love you because of the one who loved me long before I was knit in a womb

Something had changed when the Lord Jesus came and he breathed
all his life in my bones
Now I know that he is all I'll ever need to come fill up my hea rts catacombs
But I crashed into you on my way to his house while we both wal ked the long narrow road I said "come follow me. I don't have what you need, but I'd lov e if I could walk you home

I said "I'll take this woman to have and to hold" knowing one d ay I won't get to hold you no more There's no way to be sure who he'll welcome in first, but I'd l ove to walk you to the door
