

Lift The Veil

Frozen Plasma

this world of sorrow fear and pain standing in your healing rain lift the veil within our minds refuse to taste this poisoned wine from frozen plains within our hearts release us from these darkened thoughts lost on streets that have no name can we find our way again corridors within our minds through darkened halls we wander blind search for doors that once were there trapped within our own despair is it all beyond our reach hidden answers that we seek reach across this great divide love eternal never dies one day we sure must all transcend surrounded from that space within an inner smile a stolen glance live the moment take the chance whispered echoes in the night truth revealed in morning light always driving for the dawn the sun explodes the day is born what once collided will be one a revolution soon to come this newborn hope it will survive these words keep our souls alive the time like quicksand running by a glimpse of beauty in your eye go look beyond my dearest friend we're not so different in the end