Fucked Up

Tick tock said the bomb I've got the pin I'll set it off my life ignite the world a dynamitard's only job to buy the fire The trinkets shrapnel from the golden shelves just try to sell me one more piece of shit I'm looking but I can't locate myself have you seen it

The man across the counter winked it's all a game sir here's your drink they changed the color of the sun so we'd forget what darkness was

If you saw your true self in the mirror staring back without the mask could you identify the body it was riding on Because you were blind you were inside the biggest thing they hid it in plain sight the hidden thing was everything you swallowed it

Oh no, not the medicine again it doesn't work it turns me into something not to be I'm meant to be at work it makes me sick I'm sleepy give it back

The medicine I need it I just need to get this over with this day this week this life oh will it never end I'm tired of it

The man across the counter winked it's all a game sir here's your drink they changed the color of the sun so we'd forget what
darkness was

Because you were blind you were inside the biggest thing they hid
it in plain sight the hidden thing was everything you swallowed it

Now I know who made the world [?]

The head that blooms tomorrow when I'm dead the flower grew and then I knew that everything I saw was real I just forgot to feel

I told them there are people like me everywhere it's starting I can feel it it's accelerating faster now and faster all the Time is spinning out of your control just look away there is no monster underneath your bed I said and then they vanished and

Boxes withered on the shelves when people bought themselves instead the factories got up and left I cannot tell you where they Went I can hardly sit still now I'm vibrating with energy perhaps you'll need to strap me in or strap yourself in I can feel it
