

The Chapter

Gabby Barrett

I turn the pages
"2010" on the back in ink
Flippin' through faces
Pictures of the little me

Yeah, laundry hangin' on the line
Come on in, it's suppertime
Middle school's a disaster
Fast forward to right now
I ain't got it figured out
This is a chapter

I ain't a kid, but I ain't all the way grown
And I'm makin' a mess, but I'm makin' a home
I'm blazin' the trails and I'm burnin' the biscuits
I still ask for help and God is still listenin' and
I'm finally lettin' go of things that don't really matter

I've had some bad ones
Some antics that I didn't like
Even the sad ones
I wouldn't wanna rewrite

Yeah, 'cause it got me where I am
Holdin' your hand in my hand
Little feet pitter-patter
All the nights roll into days
But I'm lovin' the crazy life of this chapter

I ain't a kid, but I ain't all the way grown
And I'm makin' a mess, but I'm makin' a home
I'm blazin' the trails and I'm burnin' the biscuits
I still ask for help and God is still listenin' and
I'm finally lettin' go of things that don't really matter

For by grace I have been saved, oh
This is a verse I read every day

I ain't a kid, but I ain't all the way grown
And I'm makin' a mess, but I'm makin' a home
I'm blazin' the trails and I'm burnin' the biscuits
I still ask for help and God is still listenin' and
I'm finally lettin' go of things that don't really matter
