Holding out everything I thought was dear is easy to go away like the sand falling through my hands Shedding tears and the regrets are things running around through my heart
Not only in my mind
Giving up anything to find the way to know what's right
'Cause I know through the life I'll have to face bad faith Never know what is right or what is not right Though, I can take or hold on no more
