

This Is My Time

Gary Barlow

If love can kill you, I'll happily die
Near something so deadly I feel so alive
Dangerous, risky
From nought to sixty
That feeling money can't buy
If love can kill you, then this is my time

If love can break you, I'll brace for the pain
When it's too much, inject more love straight into my veins
Startling, wonderful
A picture so colourful
Like poetry finding its rhyme
If love can break you, then this is my time

Here on the edge is only silence
Ducked the knife and dodged the bullet till today
I've opened up the doors
If what I feel is love, then I want to end it all that way

If love makes you crazy, hope I lose my mind
Just let it steal my sanity, if it ever was mine
A shining pinnacle
Of all that's impossible
The ability to take flight
If love can change you
Oh, if love can really break you
If love can kill you, let this be my time
