Outside the rain is falling Inside it feels so cold A view from a broken window Faces that look so old

Every trick in the book you have tried To make ends meet Just remember those nights that you cried There was nothing to do, but lie awake and

Listen to your heartbeat Listen to the rhythm of your soul Listen to your heartbeat Listen to the rhythm of your soul

Outside the rain is falling Inside it feels so cold A view from a broken window Faces that have grown so old

Every trick in the book you have tried To make ends meet Just remember those nights that you cried There was nothing to do, but lie awake and

Listen your heartbeat
Listen to the rhythm of your soul
Listen to your heartbeat
Listen to the rhythm of your soul

Listen to your heartbeat Listen to the rhythm of your soul

You thought the mourning served out years ago There's no more records on the radio
No place to go

Every trick in the book you have tried To make ends meet Just remember the nights that you cried There was nothing to do, but lie awake and

Listen to your heartbeat Listen to the rhythm of your soul Listen to your heartbeat Listen to the rhythm of your soul

Listen to your heartbeat
Listen to the rhythm of your soul
Listen to your heartbeat
Listen to the rhythm of your soul

Listen to your heartbeat
Listen to the rhythm of the falling rain

Listen to your heartbeat